You can complete all of your General Education requirements through our Online Learning Department.

GE 1: English Communication and Critical Thinking

ENGL111 English Composition

This course provides students with the rhetorical foundations that prepare them for the demands of academic and professional writing. In this course, students will learn and practice the strategies and processes that successful writers employ as they work to accomplish specific purposes. In college, these purposes include comprehension, instruction, entertainment, persuasion, investigation, problem-resolution, evaluation, explanation, refutation and proper citation. In addition to preparing students for academic communication, this core-curriculum course prepares students to use writing to realize professional, personal, and ministry goals.

Textbook: Axelrod, Rise B. and Charles R. Cooper, St. Martin's Guide to Writing, 9th ed.

COMM111 Speech and Interpersonal Communication

Through this course, students will broaden their knowledge and skills for effective communication in a variety of life and ministry applications, including public speaking, the workplace, small groups, letters and emails, social media, and conflict resolution.

Textbook: Clella Jaffe, Public Speaking: Concepts and Skills for a Diverse Society

GE 2: Arts & Humanities

PHIL111 Contemporary Worldviews

As a Humanities course, this study will equip students with a broad understanding of the various philosophies and conceptions of the world that students will encounter in life, work, and ministry settings, comparing them with a Christian, biblical worldview.

Textbook: James W. Sire, The Universe Next Door: A Basic Worldview Catalog, 5th ed.

PHIL112 Ethics in Christian Perspective

This eight-week online course is a survey in normative ethics with an overview of teleological, deontological, and relativistic theories, compared and contrasted with Christian virtue ethics, Imago Dei valuation, and biblical concepts of human flourishing. The course will also examine ethical dilemmas and controversial topics within bioethics. Throughout this endeavor, CCBC's mission, "To Know God and to Equip His Servants," is taken very seriously, and this course of study is meant to interconnect well with a biblical education by giving a clear historical context for the preeminence of Judeo-Christian ethics.

Textbook: Scott B. Rae, Moral Choices: An Introduction to Ethics, 4th ed.

BSAD111 Business Administration for Ministry Entrepreneurship, Cultural Intelligence, & Marketing

Business administration is usually confined to the secular, corporate world. There is a great need, however, for administrative skills and abilities in church and para-church ministry organizations. While these organizations are driven by different motives and goals than their secular counterparts, they share many similarities. Things like marketing, innovation, relating to people, and other aspects of administration are regularly applied in ministry organizations. This introductory class will expose students to the specific concepts regarding entrepreneurship, innovation, marketing, and relating to people across cultural and social boundaries.

Textbooks: 1) Peter Drucker, Innovation and Entrepreneurship, 2) David Livermore, The Cultural Intelligence Difference, 3) Harvard Business Review Press, HBR's 10 Must Reads on Strategic Marketing

BSAD112 Business Administration for Ministry: HR, Ethics, & Organizational Leadership

Ministry requires, above all else, working with people. Everything from managing a church staff of employees to recruiting and leading volunteers, and the ethics needed for effective leadership are important in any ministry setting. This course will expose students to principles needed for effective management and leadership roles within the church ministry setting.

Textbooks: 1) Bradley Hall, The New Human Capital Strategy 2) Henry Cloud, Integrity 3) Robert Dees, Resilient Leaders

Prerequisite: BSAD111 Business Administration for Ministry I: Entrepreneurship, Cultural Intelligence, & Marketing
